Irish summer starts at the pub

When the days grow longer in Ireland and the sun starts to shine more often, what is arguably the best time of the year begins – not just outdoors in nature, but especially in the pub.

For centuries, the Irish pub has been more than just a place to drink. It is a gathering place, a living room, and a stage all at once – a place where people laugh, discuss, make music, and celebrate life.

Irish whiskey, in particular, has a long tradition here. Triple-distilled and therefore particularly smooth, it embodies the soul of Ireland like no other drink. Whether neat, on the rocks, or in a classic cocktail – a good whiskey is simply a must.

And while summer is slowly picking up speed outside, the evenings are getting longer inside: live music, good conversation, and spontaneous gatherings that rarely end early.

This is exactly the feeling we bring to you – a genuine pub atmosphere, honest drinks, and that special blend of conviviality and Irish charm.
