

ED WALSH AT YALE.

Chicago Pitcher Takes Hold of Candidates for Pitching Staff.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30.—With Ed Walsh of the Chicago Americans in charge of the Yale battery candidates, the Elis have swung back to the system of professional coaching. It was given up last year, when Capt. "Tad" Jones allowed "Billy" Lush to go, although Lush's contract had till after the baseball season to run. Yale paid Lush in full for his services, although he did not remain here during the baseball season.

Capt. Jones wished to revert to the system of coaching by former Yale players. His plan proved a failure, for the players became confused by a mixture of systems. Jones himself has been chosen head coach by Capt. Fred Murphy, but has gone into business at his old home in Ex-cello, Ohio, and there is understood to be some doubt as to whether he can spend the time to remain here all the Spring.

Although Walsh has not yet signed a Chicago contract, he does not expect to remain at Yale later than April 1. He will not join the White Sox when they go South to train. Walsh's work so far has consisted in simply looking over the Yale material, watching the men take conditioning exercises in the gymnasium, and giving some general hints. Capt. Murphy will not order the battery candidates to work in the cage for a couple of weeks.
