

War Cross for Former Yale Back.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Wallace C. Winter, Jr., a Yale back who quit school and the eleven to go to France as an aviator, has been decorated with the War Cross for bravery in a combat against German fliers in January, according to word received today by W. C. Winter, his father. Since being decorated Mr. Winter has been transferred to the American forces. The senior Winter was a tackle on the Yale team of 1890, 1891, and 1892.
